

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

HOSPITALS AND PHYSICIANS AVAILABLE TO EMPLOYEES OF UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT INJURED IN THE PERFORMANCE OF DUTY.

IMPORTANT.

The sources from which an injured employee may obtain treatment for his injury under the provisions of the employees' compensation act at the expense of the Government are given in section 9 of the act, reading as follows:

That immediately after an injury sustained by an employee while in the performance of his duty, whether or not disability has arisen, and for a reasonable time thereafter, the United States shall furnish to such employee reasonable medical, surgical, and hospital services and supplies unless he refuses to accept them. Such services and supplies shall be furnished by United States medical officers and hospitals, but where this is not practicable shall be furnished by private physicians and hospitals designated or approved by the Commission and paid for from the employees' compensation fund. If necessary for the securing of proper medical, surgical, and hospital treatment, the employee, in the discretion of the Commission, may be furnished transportation at the expense of the employees' compensation fund.

It will be noted that treatment is to be obtained from United States hospitals and dispensaries where practicable. Where there is no United States hospital or dispensary, or where the distance to them is so great, or where the nature of the injury or other conditions are such that it is impracticable to secure treatment from them, then treatment is to be secured from one of the designated physicians in the locality.

As practically all injuries subject to treatment under the compensation act are surgical in nature, the physicians designated are, in most instances, specialists in surgery. In making these designations, the Commission, in so far as possible, has selected well-trained, experienced surgeons with good reputations.

When an injured employee is sent to a United States hospital or dispensary, or to a designated physician for treatment, he should be given by his official superior a request for treatment made out on the Commission's form (CA-16) entitled "Request for treatment," or the request may be made in the form of a letter giving all the information called for by the Commission's form. This request should be dated and signed by the official superior in his official capacity and all the information called for by the form should be given. This "Request for treatment" will be the United States medical officer's or the designated physician's authority for treating the case as a beneficiary of the compensation act. Without this request the United States medical officer or designated physician has no authority to treat the case, for he will have no means of knowing whether the case is entitled to treatment at the expense of the Government.

In localities where there are neither United States hospitals nor dispensaries, nor designated physicians, the injured employee should secure treatment from any competent, well-trained physician available, as provided in paragraphs 102-104 of the Commission's Regulations, edition of 1919.

Attention is particularly invited to the fact that employees are entitled to medical treatment under the compensation act only for injuries sustained while in the performance of duty. Illnesses not due directly to the nature or condition of the employee's work and injuries not sustained while in the performance of duty do not entitle the employee to treatment under the act.

If there is doubt as to whether the disability of an employee is due to injury sustained in the performance of duty, the official superior should send the employee to a United States medical officer with a "Request for treatment" on the Commission's Form CA-17. If there is no United States medical officer available, the employee should be sent to a physician designated by the Commission under the provisions of section 9 of the compensation act, with a request on Form CA-17, as provided in paragraphs 31, 83, and 84 of the Commission's Regulations. The official superior should immediately report the case to the Commission, explaining the circumstances and his reasons for doubt. In most cases the telegraph should be used for this purpose, preferably using night letter. These telegrams may be sent to the Commission collect. The United States medical officer or designated physician to which the employee is sent for treatment will in many instances be able to determine for the official superior whether the nature of the disability with which the employee is affected is such that it could have been caused by the nature or condition of work, and whether under the circumstances described the injury is one which could be considered to have been sustained in the performance of duty.

² When it is necessary to send an injured employee to Emergency Hospital the employee should be given a "Request for treatment" on the Commission's form prepared for the purpose, and either Dr. White, Dr. Carr, or Dr. Mitchell should be immediately requested to take charge of the case. The hospital should be notified which physician will have charge. If the case is sent to George Washington University Hospital Dr. White should be requested to take charge of the case. If the case is sent to Casualty Hospital either Dr. Reeves, Dr. Taylor, or Dr. Gannon should be requested to take charge of the case and the hospital accordingly notified. ⁵ Civil male employees, injured in the performance of duty, may be admitted to naval hospitals for immediate emergency treatment and retained for further treatment provided the hospital has facilities available.
